MARGUERITE LAID TO REST

Affecting Scenes at the Burial of Smith's Victim.

BRIEF SERVICES WERE HELD

Men Wept as the Poor Girl's Body Was Brought from the House and Threats Were Muttered Against Her Slayer-Remains Placed Temporarily in a Vault.

The funeral services over the remains of poor Marguerite Drown were held yesterday afternoon at Seat Pleasant, where the murder took place. To accommodate the large crowd which assembled the fire crowd which assembled the fire the large crowd which assembled, the three pariors on the lower floor were thrown open, and these, with the hall, were thronged with the friends of the dead girl and her mother. Besides these, some 200 people assembled on the lawn.

The body had been lying in the east room, where it had been viewed by a large number of people. Just before the services it was brought into the hall, but on account of the disfiguration the casket was not opened.

The Rev. Dr. Craigbill, who is the pastor of the chapel at which Miss Drown was an attendant, had been selected to conduct the services. Dr. Craignil's voice was searcely audible, and as he proceeded be became almost overpowered by his emotions. The services were according to the ritual of the Episcopal Church, and at their conclusion Dr. Craighill made a few remarks on the awful crime committed and its consequence.

SERVICES AT THE CHAPEL.

When the services at the house were conrinded six strong pairs of arms tenderly lifted the casket and here it through the scene about the house was amost affecting As the casket was come through the lines to the hearse every head was bared. and even in that solemn moment could be heard muttered imprecations against the wretch who was the cause of so sad a scene.

As the procession filed slowly towards the chapel, a mile and a half away, the bearse was followed by a large number of vehicles of all kinds.

When the mourners arrived at the chapel they found a large crowd there. The casket was removed from the hearse and laid in the vault, where it will remain until its further disposition is decided upon. There was no services at the vauit except those in accordance with the ritual of the Epicopal Church.

BODED ILL FOR SMITH.

Mrs. Drown returned to the house with Mrs. McKinley and a few other friends who will remain a few days at the homestend. Dr. W. H. Lawrence, Dr. A. W. Miller and Mr. J. R. Ellerson were among the pall-benrers. Mrs. Drown was so overrome with grief that she has made no plans for the future, but it is understood that she contemplates selling Seat Pleas-

After Mrs. Drown and her party had re arned to Seat Pleasant, the crowd that and attended the funeral lingered around the chapel for a long time discussing the affair in all its phases and details. They would not tell what their plans were reparting the disposal of Smith but said they would develop in good time. Owing to the prominence which has been given to this affair by the newspapers they leared publicity and were very reticent in expressing themselves in the presence of rewspaper men. It was noticable, howpicious bulge and it was evident that the men were holding themselves in readiiess for anything that might happen.

SMITH NOT REMOVED. Murderer Is Still at No. 9 Awaiting Requisition Papers.

The Maryland authorities seem in no haste to take Marguerite Drown's murderer from beneath the protecting wing of the District solice. The requisition warrant from Governor Brown has not arrived, or at least fint is what the officials say,

But a belief is gaining ground that smith's detention here is not on account of the absence of such papers, but from precautionary motives. Reports from the vicinity of Seat Pleasant indicate that the feeling is hourly growing more intense and the authorities fear that a rope and a the pale of the law. Others thought Mrs. Drown ought to ha had Smith arrested and punished. An ex-cuse for her course, however, lies in the eculiar circumstances. He had been employed about her hon for years as the most trusted servant. He had received every mark of confidence from his employer, and yet the first serious impertinence to Miss Marguerite was met with a sharp rebuke. The fact was re-ported to her mother, and so strong was the anger shown against him by his victim that he did not wait to be discharged, but

When he came back and professed re pentance and begged to be restored to his place Mrs. Drown allowed him to return to work because it was very difficult to supply his place, and she probably feared to anger him. Her knowledge of his dis-position may have well caused her to dread some desperate act, such as burn-ing her house, robbing her of treasures of which he would know the place, or destroying property. She temporized while trying to devise some means to get rid of him without trouble. There is no reason to believe that Miss Marguerite even spoke to him in the two days intervening between his re-employment and the near

MONTHOMERY FOR GOLD

One Maryland County Not Affected by the Silver Craze.

Twenty-three Republicans May Vote For Silver and Two Hundred and Forty Democrats Have Bolted the Chicago Platform - Mr. Gorman's Stand-Capt. McDonald's Chances.

Maryland seems to be pretty solid-for gold, if Montgomery county can be taken as an example. This county is normally Democratic, having usually a majority of 360. Last year it was carried by the Democrats by a bare majority of eighty. It is an agri-cultural county, and it is among agri-culturists that silver is supposed to have its great hold. Yet a personal canvass of the county just made shows that the sound money men outnumber the silver, and the number may be much larger by the day of election.

Gen. Allan Rutherford, one of the leading Republicans of the county, has just fin-ished a personal canvass of the voters. Quesada, secretary of the Cuban junta, and Benjamin Guerra, treasurer, arrived in heard, like all others, of the spread of the silver craze, especially in agricultural districts. So the result of his canvass is most encouraging to him. He finds hope and comfort in the result. In a conversation with a representative of The Times, he said:

A PERSONAL CANVASS.

"Montgomery county is all right. Three weeks ago I began a personal can he voters. I drove in my buggy all over the county. I have been in personal con nunication with all the district leaders. and what do you think the result has been "There are twenty-three Republicans who may vote for free silver this fall. They are weak now. On the other hand two hundred and forty Democrats have openly pledged themselves to vote for ound money in November.

"The county is Democratic usually by about three hundred." continued Gen Rutherford, "and this change will carry it for sound money. I was most agree-ably surprised at the result. I was afraid that the free silver craze was sweeping men from their party affiliations in Mont. gomery as, it is said, it is doing in other So I was more than glad to find that our people are standing out for ound money and good times. I have little fear but that the majority in Mont. gomery will be a strong one for sound noney."

"How do you account for Senator Gorann's stand, General?" was asked. "Well, that is a hard question to an swer. Perhaps he feels that party loyalty oust keep him in seeming touch party. Of course, I know that Mr. Gorman has made speeches in which he depicte the woes that would follow the passage bonest and believed what he said. I can first, patriotism or party featty. WORK IT WELL.

"I tell you the silver men worked things very cutely. They have been at it for the past three years. People would laugh at them and ask what those fools were doing. They were getting ready to run things and if they had had six months more they would have captured the Republican party, too. These things make me wonder at won't believe that Arthur Gorman will do it.'

"Who are you going to send to Congress?" "Capt. John McDonald. Montgomery ounty is solid for him, and as chairma of the delegation I'm going to take my winter clothes to Oakland with me and we'll stay if necessary. Each county has a candidate, but we will win out. The district has been Republican for forty-six years and in that time Montgomery has never had a Representative. I think it is time now. Then, too, the district has never been represented by a soldier, and Capt. McDouald has a great war record. We are going to

Leaving jhis city the tracks of the West Jersey road run parallel to those of the Camden and Atlantic until after they cross the drawbridge, when they switch off to the south, crossing the Reading road an angle.

John Greiner, the engineer of the West Jersey train, saw the Reading train sp proaching the crossing at a swift speed, but as the signals were open for him to proceed on his way he continued. His engine had barely cleared the track of the Reading when the locomotive of the latter train, which left Philadelphia at 5:40 p. m., struck the first car full in the center, throwing it far off the track into a nearby ditch, completely submerging it.

The second car of the West Jersey train was also carried into the ditch, the third and fourth cars being telescoped. The engine of the Reading train was thrown to the other side of the track, carrying with it the first coach.

THE BOILER EXPLODED. A few minutes after the collision, to add to the herror of the situation, the bolier of the Rending locomotive exploted, scalding several to death, and casting its boiling spray over many of the injured passengers. As soon as the news reached this city it spread widecast, and thousands of people flocked to the scene. The road leading to the place of the colision was a constant procession of backs, busses, and bicycles, and all kinds of vehicles, while thousands of pedestrans hurried along the path to render what assistance they could or to satisfy their

It was a gruesome sight presented to onlookers as the mangled and barnt forms of the dead were carried from the wreckings which bound them and inhiside by side on the gravel bank near the track with no other pall than the few odd news-

The wounded were quickly gathered to gether and carried by train and wagon to the Atlantic City Hospital, where six of them died shortly after their arrival. The old excursion house at the foot of Mississippi avenue was converted into a morgae and thither the dead were

This city is terribly excited over the occident. The streets in the vicinity of the excursion house and the city hospital as well as the road leading to the scene of the accident being packed with people anxious to learn the latest.
